to me

Hi Lea:

Please see the chart below for all states that have adopted the CORE test and at what study value. Keep in mind that most states have adopted at the rec. study value stemming from the MSSS.

If you need any more assistance, please let me know.

Have a great day!

Thanks,
Malik

FBI Criminal History Checks for Employment and Licensing

The FBI's authority to conduct a criminal history record check for non-criminal justice purposes is based upon Public Law (Pub. L.) 92-544. Pursuant to that law, the FBI is empowered to exchange criminal history record information with officials of state and local governments for employment, licensing, which includes volunteers, and other similar non-criminal justice purposes, if authorized by a state statute which has been approved by the Attorney General of the United States. The U.S. Department of Justice has advised that the state statute establishing guidelines for a category of employment or the issuance of a license must, in itself, require fingerprinting and authorize the governmental licensing or employing agency to exchange fingerprint data directly with the FBI.

A criminal history record search obtained pursuant to U.S. Department of Justice Order 556-73 may not meet employment requirements. Governmental licensing or employing agencies covered by federal laws and/or state statutes may refuse to accept criminal history record information directly from the subject of the record, as there would be no way to verify that the information contained on the record had not been altered. Also, a record provided to the subject for personal review contains only information maintained by the CJIS Division and may lack dispositional data and/or arrest records that are maintained only at the state level.

You should contact the agency requiring the fingerprinting or the appropriate state identification bureau for the correct procedures to follow.

Travel Report Submitted by Dr. Cheryl Sangueza, School of Education

February 18, 2014

I had the opportunity to serve on the standard setting panel to recommend passing scores (cut scores) for the Middle School Science Praxis for Educators assessment. The meeting was held at the Chauncey Conference Center on the Educational Testing Service campus in Princeton, New Jersey (Chauncey Conference Center). The meeting began at 8:30 AM on Monday, February 10 and concluded at approximately 4:00 PM Tuesday, February 11.

During this standard-setting meeting, we defined the minimum level of knowledge and skills a candidate must demonstrate on the Middle School Science Praxis for Educators to receive a teaching license. The question continued to be: for the content measured by this test, what do we want from our just qualified middle school science teacher?

During this process, we defined the dividing line between a candidate that is "just qualified" and a candidate that is "not quite qualified." The performance standard was to be high enough to protect future students but not so high as to impose an unreasonable barrier.

We reviewed the test specifications prior to attending the meeting and completed a survey. We also reviewed the Test at a Glance documents provided prior to the meeting. Although the content of the test and the discussions from the meeting are confidential, the experience itself and the discussions we can have about the level of preparation for future teacher candidates based on the meeting will be valuable to both the Certification Commission and UOG School of Education.

Thank you for the opportunity for me to serve on this very eye-opening experience!

Sincerely,
